Debbie Diller

Debbie Diller lives in Houston, TX and has been a national consultant since 2000. She earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in education from Millersville University and Temple University and spent the last forty years as an educator. She is passionate about meeting the needs of all students through engaging instruction in whole group, guided support in small group instruction, and independent practice at workstations—in both literacy and numeracy! Debbie is the author of six best-selling books on literacy (and now math) workstations, classroom organization, and small group instruction from Stenhouse Publishers.

March 21, 2017 - Spaces & Places: Putting Students First

With a new teacher evaluation system in place in Texas, many teachers are reflecting upon their classroom environments and how to best make their rooms student-centered. Join Debbie Diller, author of Spaces and Places, Growing Independent Learners, and other books and videos on independent learning, to examine the importance of classroom environment and get practical suggestions you can put into practice tomorrow.

As Debbie has traveled across North America working with teachers in countless classrooms, she's created structures and systems to help teachers make the most of their classroom spaces and put students first. During this K-5 workshop, Debbie will share stories and examples of how classroom setup influences teaching and learning in elementary classrooms. She'll show "before and afters" and the effects on both student behavior and academic performance. Teachers, administrators, and coaches will learn ways to organize and maximize classroom resources and space by looking at furniture, walls, and even closets and cupboards. You'll be inspired to return to your classroom (or office) and rethink your space with your students in mind!

March 22, 2017 - Differentiation: Doing Something Different to Meet the Needs of Students in Whole Group, Small Group and at Literacy Stations

"How do I fit in everything I'm expected to teach AND meet the needs of all students?" is a question Debbie Diller has been studying for over 20 years.

In this session, you'll learn ways to integrate whole group reading and writing instruction, guided reading, and literacy stations during Tier I time to meet the needs of students in your K-5 classroom. We'll examine how to plan for differentiation using standards and assessment data, especially as we approach the last quarter of the school year. The focus will be on how to differentiate in whole group, in small group, and at literacy stations... and still have a life! Please join Debbie to reflect, re-energize, and prepare for a strong finish to the 2016-17 school year.
